2023 Collection

LEICHT offers more finishes, door styles, cabinet hardware options and lighting options than any other European manufacturer.

With the collection 2023, our focus is on three ranges namely, Contino, Bossa, and Kyoto.

CONTINO E12

BOSSA

Kyoto

Contino E12

Elegantly Minimal

Thanks to the reduced material thickness of this range, in terms of its feel in direct comparison to thicker standard fronts. The new product is graceful, shapely and elegant. It inspires a minimal design aesthetic and offers a decluttered kitchen with sleek and streamlined architectural lines.

Contino 12 presents different planning scenarios, with a new, handleless kitchen front in a thickness of 12 mm and the finest manufacturing quality. Available either with a lacquer finish or in aluminium, the thin front rounds off different room designs with an elegant design language and architecturally clear lines.

LEICHT has received the "Special Mention" award for Contino,,12 in the "Excellent Product Design" category of the highly acclaimed German Design Award 2023"

Bossa

Iconic Setting

BOSSA, is a surface with thick veneer application and vertical embossing. The complete cladding of the handle-less kitchen run and adjoining units with the new BOSSA range in Walnut is an architectural statement that makes no compromise in terms of function or aesthetics.

The protruding, linear bars of the multi-award-winning BOSSA front create a warm, uniform overall appearance and give the kitchen a three-dimensional effect.

Kyoto

Japanese Sensuality

The planning principle of Kyoto is inspired by the sensuality of Japanese craft culture.

The essential design feature is the well-thought-out planning approach of using panels, shelves, and horizontal solid wood grip rail profiles and the resulting spatial lattice structure, which, on the one hand, creates natural traditional-looking real wood furniture, but, on the other radiates simple urban modernity.

Available in Oak and Walnut finish, KYOTO offers our customers an ideal range and design principle that fulfils the desire for high quality, warmth, and naturalness.

Quality & Technology

Down to the finest detail.
No room for human error.

Technology

LEICHT uses a variety of tools and technology to ensure that LEICHT products are of the highest quality. They use CNC machines to cut the materials to precise specifications, and they use robots together with expert craftsmen to assemble the cabinetry.

Here are some of the specific technologies that LEICHT uses:

CNC machines

These machines are used to cut the wood to precise specifications. This ensures that the cabinetry is perfectly aligned and that the joints are tight.

Robotic Automation

Automated robotic assembly lines are used to assemble the cabinetry. This ensures that the assembly is done quickly and accurately, so that the finished product will provide the required performance for years to come.

Finishing techniques

LEICHT has a variety of finishing techniques available to give the kitchens their distinctive look.

Our Work

House Joubert

After building their previous house with a bright white and natural colour pallet, our client wanted to try something different with ultra sleek and modern finishes giving dark and moody tones. Our latest creation in Bondi whispers secrets of sophistication, with moody hues and a sleek Carbon Grey finish that dances with the play of light. The heart of the home, cloaked in Bondi - Carbon Grey stands as a testament to daring design.

House Eftting

From the brief, our team designed a stylish and modern kitchen that can handle the unique needs of our client's daily routine and incorporated easy-to-clean surfaces and materials to make cleaning up after messy farm work a breeze.

The resulting kitchen is a perfect balance of functionality and style. With our LEICHT Madero (wild oak), Barrique Bondi (olive grey), and fossil grey finishes with Contino handle sprayed to match. To our Inside Living Easytouch - mineral green and sand finishes in the scullery to complement the kitchen.

Our Work

House Willcocks

This beautiful and homely kitchen in Olive Grey Bondi features the LED lights around the channel handles, Vero glass units and the Fossil grey door finish with shelf healing nanotech.

These are some of the product features that show our ability to deliver luxury modern kitchens.

House Moola

Our client did not hold back on coordination. From her brief, we were able to design this elegant yet functional kitchen in Walnut le midi F45. Subtly coordinated details, such as the coffee station, dining nook window seat and baking station underline the sophisticated, luxurious look of this exceptional kitchen.
